EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Public Service is requesting Council approval to reestablish a previously-approved administrative fee for the filing of an appeal of an order under the Vacant Buildings By-law 79/2010, to support the effective administration and timely enforcement of the By-law. On December 6, 2006, Council approved the establishment of a $250 administrative fee for the filing of an appeal of an order of the former Vacant and Derelict Buildings By-law No. 35/2004 (December 6, 2006). The appeal fee was unintentionally omitted from the new fee schedule of the Vacant Buildings By-law 79/2010, which came into effect on July 21, 2010, and replaced By-law No. 35/2004.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. That Council reestablish the previously-approved $250 administration fee for the filing of an appeal of an order made under the Vacant Buildings By-law 79/2010, refundable if the Standing Policy Committee hearing the appeal concludes that the appeal is being made in good faith and has some merit.
2. That the proper officers of the City do all things necessary to implement the intent of the foregoing.

REASON FOR THE REPORT

Council approval is required to reestablish an existing fee.

IMPLICATIONS OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS

The collection of an appeal fee will have no significant implications, as the number of appeals has been between 1 and 3 in each year since enactment of the By-law in 2010. It is anticipated that some fees may be refunded by the hearing body, for appeals made in good faith and having some merit.

HISTORY/DISCUSSION

On July 21, 2010, Council approved a new Vacant Buildings By-law, to regulate the condition of vacant buildings and to discourage the boarding of vacant buildings. Also approved by Council at this time was a new fee schedule for activities related to enforcement of new standards prescribed for vacant buildings (boarding, inspections, etc.). Although Council had previously approved the establishment of a $250 administrative fee for the filing of an appeal of an order of the former Vacant and Derelict Buildings By-law No. 35/2004 (December 6, 2006), the appeal fee was unintentionally omitted from the proposed new fee schedule.

An appeal fee means that the administrative costs associated with an appeal are at least partially borne by the appellant. Besides defraying the City's costs, this helps to deter appeals that are solely designed to delay compliance with an order to comply with the By-law. At the same time, the fact that an appeal fee can be refunded by the appeal body means that good faith appeals with some merit will not be discouraged by cost factors.

The City of Winnipeg Charter permits the establishment of appeal processes, and associated fees, where an order or decision has been directed to a property owner, or person responsible, for a property in the City of Winnipeg. Appeal fees exist for many other City of Winnipeg by-laws, including:

- Neighbourhood Liveability By-law
- Fire Prevention By-law
- Doing Business in Winnipeg By-law
- Sewer By-law
- Water By-law
- Solid Waste By-law
- Impact Fee By-law
- Responsible Pet Ownership By-law

FINANCIAL IMPACT

Report to Re-establish a Fee for Appeals under the Vacant Buildings By-law 79/2010

COMMENTS:

There are minimal financial implications with respect to the recommendations of this report. The appeal hearing body may refund the appeal fee, where the appeal is made in good faith, and has merit.
