EPC #10 While the mill rate and total collected are in the hands of the School boards and the province, they are the product of a rate and an assessed value. This raises an issue which scares many homeowners. If you have lived in your house long enough for it to rise 50% in value, that does not help pay the taxes for those struggling to live.. While we were promised that taxes would not rise more than a few %, some folks fear that huge increases in assessed value could result in a big increase in taxes owed. If this fear is unfounded, may I ask that the city allay such fears?
