Comments in writing: Instead of enforcing every one of the hundreds of bylaws, about which most of us are unaware, the city should instead review them all for efficacy. Why was each one passed? When enforced, does each one achieve its original purpose? At least a few do the opposite of what was intended.
For the past 7 weeks, we had small election signs across the city. Thousands of them violated the sign bylaw. Why does the city 311 system ignore such violations, by professionals who should know better, and who can afford to pay fines?
Was anyone fined for election sign bylaw violations a year ago? In the past 7 weeks?
