Property #2. Once again, land-sales and procurement type rules are being broken, under the blanket excuse that vacancy rates are low.
The department knows what it wants. At the SPC, staff were asked about RFPs for construction projects. What about auctions for selling? Does no one here see that assembling and selling a half million dollar property but ignoring all the rules, invites wrongdoing? You should never put staff in such positions. A set of deliverables should be published, and the land should be sold by an open auction.
