Park, Jo-Ann

From: prychitkc
Sent: Monday, January 19, 2009 2:53 PM
To: Park, Jo-Ann
Subject: DMIS Email: Comment

Name: Wanda Prychitko

Message: In regards to the Roadside Memorial topic, I've seen a similar situation in the states. Last summer, we were traveling through Montana and were impressed to see many crosses along the roads. Of course, it made us aware of road dangers and of lives lost, but it also spoke to the importance of the memorial and that a group (probably the Kinsmen or some such group) saw fit to construct a more official memorial - one that was clean and required no upkeep. It also meant that the community saw the importance of reminding drivers to be careful. This might be worth looking into. I'm a recent volunteer with the Committee for Safety, with Citizens For Crime Awareness, Neighbourhood Watch, Block Parents, and I work in an elementary school in St. James-Assiniboia. Thanks for your time and for passing this along to the appropriate council.

Sent from URL: http://winnipeg.ca/CLKDMIS/ViewDoc.asp?DocId=8941&SectionId=&InitUrl=