Re: Delisting Dennistown House, 166 Roslyn Road

The Historical Buildings Committee has been advised that a request was received from Sunstone Resort Communities Corp., agents of the property owners, to have this building removed from the Buildings Conservation List (delisted) in order that it may be demolished. The proposed redevelopment of the site would be a multi-family residential complex, including the three neighboring properties to the west.

In considering this request, the Committee visited the house on March 19, 2009 to review its condition. At their meeting following, the Committee agreed that the heritage values have not changed since designation of the property in 1984 as a Grade III structure.

The three-storey Dennistown House was built in 1908 for the Honourable Justice Robert M. Dennistown. It stands as one of the few private dwellings remaining from one of Winnipeg's early affluent suburbs, a good example of the Tudor style designed by prominent architect John D. Atchison, and is associated with a notable historic figure. It was designated for its merit as a structure contributing to the early suburban character of Roslyn Road, which is slowly being eroded, as the stately homes are lost to new development.

The Historical Buildings Committee believes that the heritage values of the building have not changed since the time of designation. The Committee may consider a building be delisted in extraordinary circumstances where it has been entirely or substantially destroyed, or is no longer of special architectural or historic interest. However, in this case, the historical connection with Judge Dennistown gives the structure a prominence representing the career of a notable figure in Manitoba's judicial and military history. The architectural style also makes the Dennistown House of particular importance in establishing the dominant character of the area and contributes to the historical continuity of the streetscape.

Therefore, the Historical Buildings Committee recommends that:

1) The building not be delisted because the heritage values have not changed;
2) The Osborne Village Neighbourhood Plan be noted as stating:
   (7.1.6.A) Discourage the demolition of historic or architecturally significant buildings or structures. Demolition shall be considered as a last resort, and should only be considered when buildings are determined to be structurally unsound beyond repair by an independent structural engineering report. Economic viability should not be the sole determining factor.
