Secretariat

noun

- a permanent administrative office, department, or committee, especially a governmental one.
- [treated as singular or plural] the staff working in a secretariat.
- Secretariats are the main intergovernmental agency and central institution of governments. It is responsible for facilitating cooperation between members; organizing meetings, assisting and advising on policy development; and providing assistance to members in implementing the decisions and policies of a central government
- The word secretariat evolved from the medieval Latin noun secretariatus/secretarius
- Secretariat is, in many cases, interchangeable with the word committee

Governance

noun

- the action or manner of governing a state , organization, etc
- archaic rule; control: what, shall King Henry be a pupil still, under the surly Gloucester's governance?
- Governance is the activity of governing. It relates to decisions that define expectations, grant power, or verify performance. It consists either of a separate process or of a specific part of management or leadership processes. Governance relates to consistent management, cohesive policies, guidance, processes and decision-rights for a given area of responsibility.
- The word governance is, ultimately, derived from the Greek verb κυβερνάω [kubernáo] which means to steer and was used for the first time in a metaphorical sense by Plato.
