Extensive investigation, computer modelling and system redesign were required to mitigate this problem. Subsequently, lengthy and detailed system testing was undertaken to ensure proper operation, followed by retraining of operating staff on the revised system. Finally, a HAZOP of the system was conducted to confirm that appropriate redundancy and control systems were in place and build operator confidence before start-up in May of 2006. Since May, 2006 there have been recurring, serious equipment failures while under warranty which have required further time by the consultant to resolve. This overexpenditure was approved by CFO October 2, 2007. Complete.
