REASON FOR THE REPORT

Council approval is required for a Heritage Conservation Grant

IMPLICATIONS OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS

- $660,000 Grant being last dollars in is a reasonable public investment to ensure one of our more recognizable and historically relevant facades along Portage Avenue is preserved and incorporated into a new multi-million dollar development.
- The multi-million dollar new development of the A&B Sound Block will further support and complement this area of the Downtown as our Sports, Hospitality and Entertainment District.
- The Heritage Investment Reserve Fund has capacity to fund the $660,000 Grant for this important Heritage Conservation application.

HISTORY

In 1906, Businessman Charles William Nassau Kennedy (1865-1920), son of Colonel W.N. Kennedy, a former Winnipeg mayor, established a three-storey building on the north side of Portage between Donald and Hargrave streets, across from the successful Eaton's store.

Known later as the Affleck Block, this structure had brick exterior walls and a stone foundation. Four retail units were located at grade, with offices on the upper levels. Over the years, occupants included tailors, shoe and confectionery stores, realtors, brokers, and financial firms. The facility was designed by local architect John D. Atchison and built at a cost of $65,000 by the William Grace Co., an American firm with a Winnipeg office.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce, established in Toronto in 1858 as the Bank of Canada and later (1867) as the Commerce, opened its first Winnipeg outlet in 1893 and subsequently built two substantial banking halls on Main between Lombard and McDermot avenues. The branch at 315 Portage was retained until 1959. Two years later, the Commerce and Imperial Bank of Canada merged, forming the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

The space at 315 Portage was vacant until 1969 when Mitchell-Copp Ltd. opened a jewellery store on the site. During that firm's tenure to c.1981, alterations included replacement of the revolving front door and installation of an acoustic tile ceiling on the main floor. The building withstood a fire which destroyed the upper two storeys of the rest of the Affleck Block in 1973. However, occupancy was sporadic after Mitchell-Copp's departure, and then in July 1992 the interior was gutted by fire, leaving only the walls and frame of the former vault ceiling.
