EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Public Service is proposing a variety of administrative changes and updates to the Winnipeg Building By-law No. 4555/87 including:

- Changes to what work requires permits.
- Clarifications and updates to reflect current practices.
- New wording to clarify the existing enforcement processes with respect to responsibility of the owner/applicant in terms of time requirements associated with permits and defects, and the requirement that future owners be responsible for obtaining permits where work was done by a previous owner without a permit. Changes reflect current enforcement practice and current application of fees for non-compliance.
- New requirements for permits obtained in stages.
- Assorted other legal/ administrative updates and corrections.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. That Council enact amendments to the Winnipeg Building By-law No. 4555/87 (draft amending by-law is attached as Appendix “A”).

2. That the proper officers of the City be authorized to do all things necessary to implement the intent of the foregoing.

REASON FOR THE REPORT

The approval of Council is required to amend the Winnipeg Building By-law No. 4555/87.

IMPLICATIONS OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS

If the recommendations of this report are concurred in, the Winnipeg Building By-law No. 4555/87 will be amended as follows:

1. clarify that permits are required for installing sump pumps and developing previously undeveloped space in buildings, including basements and attics in houses;
2. create clear legal language regarding the responsibilities of future property owners relating to work performed on properties that required a permit but was performed without a permit. Currently, by-law language clearly transfers the code requirements to future owners but proposed language would also make it clear that future owners are responsible for obtaining required permits where work has been completed without a permit, even if that work was completed by a prior owner. This reflects current enforcement practice;
3. update the requirements related to the responsibility of the owner/applicant relating to time requirements associated with permits and defects including charging additional fees. These fees were approved by Council on March 23, 2016, but the proposed by-law updates create an offence for failing to meet these time requirements;
4. specify requirements for applicants who obtain permits in stages, so as to help ensure that their entire projects are completed;
5. remove the requirement for contractor's licenses to terminate at the end of the calendar year; and
6. other minor administrative changes and updates. For example, required language associated with professional certification would now include reference to the new Manitoba Energy Code.

HISTORY/DISCUSSION

In 2012, updates and changes were made to the Winnipeg Building By-law No. 4555/87 (the "By-law"). These changes were mostly associated with the Building Permit Strategy. At the time, the Public Service noted that other administrative changes should also be made to update the By-law. A more comprehensive review of the By-law is still planned, but some changes that required less research, discussion, or were simply more time sensitive were packaged together in this report, and include:

1. Simple updates / corrections

(a) The terms "the authority having jurisdiction" will be replaced with "the designated employee" and the term "Manager of Development and Inspections" will be replaced with "Director" throughout the By-law.

(b) The definition of "Director" will be updated.

It is the City's current legislative practice to delegate enforcement and administrative authority regarding by-laws to those holding positions no lower than the level of Director, as there are more likely to be changes in the job titles of those positions which are lower than Director positions. The change also clarifies who fits within the definition of Director.

(c) Include the Manitoba Energy Code for Buildings in respect of professional certification requirements. This is an update to reflect the current codes.

(d) Delete any provision which deals with alterations and additions to buildings as these provisions are in the Manitoba Building Code and therefore do not need to be repeated in the By-law.

(e) Provide a designated employee with the authority to request that an applicant for a permit provides an estimate of the value of the work that will be done and also provides supporting information.

2. Clarifications and updates to reflect current enforcement practice

(a) Clarify the responsibilities of current and future owners relating to work done without permit(s).

Clause 5.8.2 of the Winnipeg Building By-law requires that current and subsequent property owners are both responsible to ensure that their buildings meet Code standards that were in place at the time of construction, renovation, or alteration. The mechanism by which the City ensures Code compliance is the permit process. Therefore, when permits have not been taken out at the time of construction, renovation or alteration, the City's practice has been to require that subsequent owners take out the necessary permits and pay any fees associated with the non-compliance. If subsequent owners were to be responsible to meet the code standards at the time of construction (as is already clearly set out in the By-law), but were not also required to obtain a permit for the work constructed without a permit, it would make the City's enforcement of code (through determination and evaluation of non-compliance) costly and legally challenging.

This practice provides disincentives for owners who carry out work without obtaining permits from attempting to avoid responsibility for the work by transferring the ownership of their property.

This amendment is required to ensure that the City's current practice is fully and clearly reflected in the By-law. However, it is important to note that it simply sets out in the By-law the City's longstanding enforcement expectation and practice.

Making this change ensures that the By-law provides clear and unequivocal expectations for subsequent owners. It also serves as guidance to real estate agents and lawyers with respect to due diligence, as prospective owners are expected to be aware of any work that was completed in a building, whether that work required a permit, and whether or not the appropriate permit was obtained.

It is important to note that prospective purchasers and the real estate professionals who are advising them can search all construction-related permits issued since Jan 1, 2000 on the City's website at: https://ppdportal.winnipeg.ca/Permits/PropertyPermitSearch/Start.jsp. This tool allows potential purchasers to ensure that permits have been issued and inspection processes completed (which closes the permit). Application for permit records prior to 2000 can also be searched by calling 204-986-7395 or emailing PPD-CentralFiles@Winnipeg.ca.

(b) Clarify the Standing Policy Committee on Property and Development, Heritage and Downtown Development's authority to refer appeals concerning building design and construction, and those appeals of a technical nature, to the Winnipeg Building Commission, as the members of the Winnipeg Building Commission have the technical expertise necessary to deal with complex code matters.

(c) Formalize the current practice of requesting drawings and plans to support permit applications, which allows for increased efficiency in the processing of permit applications.

(d) Formalize the current practice regarding the value of work associated with a building permit to also include professional fees and project management costs.

(e) Update provisions regarding demolitions:

(i) specify time limits for demolitions to be completed after a permit has been obtained (30 days for housing and accessory structures, 60 days for commercial);

(ii) allow for an extension of the demolition time limits by the designated employee; and

(iii) make it an offence to not complete demolitions within the specified time.

Current legislation allows for enforcement when work does not proceed in a timely fashion, but the changes set definitive time frames (allowing for extensions) to assist in enforcing completion of demolition work that has the potential to be hazardous to neighbouring properties, the public generally, and quality of life in terms of aesthetics.

3. Changes to what work requires permits

The amendment will allow the City to require that a permit should be obtained for the installation of sump pits and pumps.

It will also allow the City to require that applicants/owners obtain permits for previously undeveloped space in buildings and for adding or developing bedrooms. Development of previously undeveloped basements had been a longstanding requirement in the by-law prior to 2012 when the City, in an attempt to gain efficiencies, withdrew this requirement. However, this 2012 amendment has proven problematic as housing inspectors investigating for electrical or plumbing permits routinely discover significant code violations associated with traditional building code requirements. However, there is no longer a permit system in order to track and monitor these defects. Additionally, with the introduction of the Provincial Manitoba Energy Code for Buildings, the lack of a current permit requirement makes it difficult for the City to ensure that these basement and attic spaces are developed in a compliant fashion.

4. New requirements related to the responsibility of the owner/applicant to meet specific time requirements associated with permits and defects

Update the responsibilities of owners who make a request for an inspection as work authorized under a permit progresses.

In 2016, administrative fees were introduced pursuant to the comprehensive fee review. These fees included fees associated with failing to call for inspections and failing to inform the City when work commenced. The amendment serves to align the Winnipeg Building By-law requirements with those fees and specifies that a permit holder is required to meet specific time-related deadlines in the following instances:

(i) the applicant/owner does not call for a required inspection or otherwise notify the appropriate branch of the City that work has commenced within 6 months after the permit was issued;

(ii) a defect has been identified during an inspection and the applicant/owner does not call for a re-inspection or request an extension within 1 month of the defect being identified in the case of housing branch building permits, or within 7 business days for commercial projects; or

(iii) the applicant/owner does not close a permit or obtain an extension from the City within 3 years of the permit being issued.

Each of these situations already triggers a fee as per the introduction of these fees in 2016. In the case of the 3 year term of a permit, the By-law already indicates that a permit expires. These changes would introduce a requirement for the applicant/owner/builder to initiate contact with the City within these timelines. Creating an offence for failing to make contact creates a more efficient method of enforcement (and therefore compliance) associated with these issues.

5. Requirements for permits obtained in stages

Update the By-law to require that applicants/owners who are issued permits which represent only stages or parts of a more complete permit/project must either:

(i) complete the permitted stage prior to the staged permit's expiration and obtain all necessary permits for additional stages of the project; or

(ii) remove the structure or the portion of the structure that was authorized by the partial or staged permit and restore the property to the condition it was in prior to the permit having been issued.

This change would better allow the City to enforce in cases where a foundation only permit was issued and the foundation constructed, but then simply capped off and the property left permanently with an incomplete project. It is assumed that the permissions granted on the basis of the stages were not specifically for an end-product partial project, but for the staged portion of the project with a planned final project completion. As such, failure to proceed should result in authority for the City to enforce the removal of the staged, partial project.

6. Allow for the expiration of contractors' licenses at any time of year based on date of issuance

The By-law currently requires that contractors' licences be renewed at the end of the calendar year. This timing specificity causes significant resource challenges as the number of contractors licences increase and a small window of time is available for renewal. To level workflow, the proposed amendments will allow a licence to expire at any time of the year and will be based on issuance date rather than the calendar year.
