This move totally disregards the inadequate number of community centres in the new southwest neighbourhoods and the welfare of people who live in this area.

Contrast this decision not to spend money, with the proposed opening of Portage and Main, a cosmetic move which is politically driven. A new recreation complex will benefit children, youth and many in the community of all ages. This kind of decision making is what makes voters disillusioned with politicians. I do not support this decision. Is anyone out there listening?
