

The diamond lane must turn right sign on Henry is directing vehicles (of all sizes) to a back lane.

Buses, large trucks etc, get stuck and are forced to turn around on a very small and narrow street, or go down a very tight back lane.

In some cases these large vehicles, either in an attempt to turn around, or go down the back lane have hit my building.

Which without saying causes damage to the outside of the building, the vehicles that hit it, as well as slowly causing cracks on the inside of my building.

I see this time and time again, endless traffic on Henry street for no reason at all.

The must turn sign on argyle is blocked by the bus stop sign, and the sign onto my street is a nuisance and confusing for drivers.

I am requesting the must turn right sign is moved in between Henry and Argyle street on Disraeli.

-Wanda Koop

