Comments in writing: Good governance (as practiced in other cities, and we hear about during election campaigns) requires fully informing the residents before changes are made in their lives. Every aspect (of the current war between a few local councilors and drivers) has involved misinformation and deceit. The city spends a lot every year on spin docs, so it knows better. The only logical explanation is that those pushing to inconvenience drivers (and the elderly and infirm) know that this silliness is not popular, so they have to operate in 'shadows'. Too bad there is no summary of the actual changes to road rules for 2022. Too bad locals are in for another set of surprises to mess up their enjoyment of our oh-so-short summer. All those in office, who seek votes in October, should beware. Repeat the human rights abuses of past years, and expect resentment among those voting
