Comments in writing: 23 WPS radios. Not long ago, we were told that WPS could not afford body cameras. Now suddenly we can afford millions for a new radio/computer program. Has no one at WPS considered that daily use of cameras will actually prove service members to be blameless nearly every time. Does this new radio system actually offer as great an improvement in service as the cameras which were rejected? Does the exaggeration of camera costs indicate bias in the way that reports are proposed to EPC and Council? Is there a similar degree of bias behind this proposal?
