Comments in writing: I oppose this venture into reducing this city income stream. While I might benefit from such a program as a pensioner, I see the downside. Adding programs like this, to benefit a small group of residents, is how costs go up for all of us. It leads to 'mission creep' as staff struggles to do well. It means city staffing levels grow, as city hall moves out of its lane. I recall a city Councilor lamenting recently that the city does not keep track of the income levels of its residents. Now it would have to do so.
