While it is noble that more data sets are being published, the city goal of being fully transparent is not being met.

We are usually denied access to Reports that are critical to the decisions of Council, and to public understanding. I suggest that this 'project' is mostly a distraction. If you seek real transparency, perhaps you should reduce the delay in the city's response to resident questions, and you should insist that all reports paid by taxpayers are made public.

I consent to being contacted to participate in potential public engagement related to this matter.
