13, 14. Safety. The efficacy of these programs should be reviewed. As the leader of a Community Association, having attended dozens of such safety presentations, and having spoken with other attendees, I feel that empowering residents is good. Telling them that the police are too busy is not good; it makes them afraid to do anything. Promoting NEIGHBOURHOOD WATCH is good. Reminding all to not leave valuables in parked cars is good too. On a related matter, making those on foot and bikes fully responsible is essential to reducing injuries. Best safety practices are in use in other cities; why does Winnipeg not consider them?
