7. spending on a bike path (?) in violation of the rules. By placing this item next to #6 the very modest rink, we see that spending about 70 times as much to benefit a special interest is OK but a small local rink is not. This clearly illustrates the value in mounting a major lobbying campaign. If the rules were followed, one might ask how such frivolous roadbuilding is normally funded, and why this path was not followed. It would have to be ranked with analogous plans across the city. Does this spending break the rules, because it would not be funded if it had to be ranked against other city projects?
