Request ID: 2024-001

Name of Request: Renaming Bonaventure Park to Tunngasugit Park

Address: 70 Evelyne Reese Boulevard

Demonstrated Community Support:

- Petition submitted: No.
- Letters of support provided: 1 letter of support provided.

Project Details:

It is acknowledged that this park is currently named after the street, Bonaventure Drive, which runs along the west side of the park.

The motion refers to the greenspace at 70 Evelyne Reese Boulevard as Bonaventure Park, although there is no existing park signage.

How does this renaming contribute to a ‘Welcoming Winnipeg’, as defined in the policy and what kind of evidence/research can be provided to support this state

This renaming request supports the spirit of Welcoming Winnipeg principles:

- Ultimately achieves a balanced perspective/story
- Honours Indigenous peoples as the original peoples of this land and the contemporary context in which Indigenous peoples continue to have relationship with this land:
- Promotes Indigenous reclamation of land, space and/or language:
- Offers an educational opportunity
- Supports telling the complete history of Winnipeg

2022-2032 was proclaimed by the United Nations General Assembly as the International Decade of Indigenous Languages; this proposed renaming supports this proclamation, as well as City Council’s February 16, 2022, adoption of the following motion:

That to be consistent with the United Nations General Assembly (Resolution A/RES/74/135) which proclaimed the period between 2022 and 2032 as the International Decade of Indigenous Languages, to draw global attention on the critical situation of many indigenous languages and to mobilize stakeholders and resources for their preservation, revitalization and promotion, that the City of Winnipeg declare the decade as International Decade of Indigenous Languages.

Renaming a park in Inuktitut acknowledges the Inuit population in Winnipeg, some of whom reside here permanently and others that come and go as necessary for a variety of reasons, such as: medical appointments, educational opportunities, and other services that are not accessible in their home communities.

In the Inuktitut language, Tunngasugit means “Welcome”. This word used gives people the feeling of being welcomed into a park using an Indigenous language.

The urban Inuit population is often under-served, and this renaming is an acknowledgement of their distinct identity and place in Winnipeg.

Does this site have historical significance to the Indigenous community?

Research Support:

This park is located in Treaty One Territory, the ancestral lands of the Anishinaabe, Ininew and Dakota peoples, and in the National Homeland of the Red River Métis.

The park sits just to the east of the Seine River, which has historical significance as a site for historic pulp mills, the most notable owned by the father of Louis Riel, Jean-Louis. Water access has always been important to First Nations, Metis and Inuit for trading routes as well as for its significance to physical and spiritual health.

On a map dated 1875 (Plan of the River Lots in the Parishes of St. John, St. James and St. Boniface), it appears that the land east of the Seine River was noted as the property of the Roman Catholic Church. More research would be required to understand what those implications were and how that came to be.
