Council was warned before approving this project. The option that city hall chose was far more expensive and would take years of water pollution longer than the better choices. This clearly indicated a failure to protect the public interest. There is no sign that those concerns about scope and price were ever appreciated by city hall. There is no sign that city hall ever pondered prior examples of the escalation in price and delay, with this vendor or with this D-B process. Is the costly mess your team is trying to manage exactly what we should have expected?
